

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An e-mail delivery apparatus enabling a user sending e-mail to designate a time the e-mail is delivered to a user to whom the e-mail is sent, including a receiving unit for receiving e-mail and transmission time information designating the time the e-mail is to be sent to the mail destination, a memory for storing the received e-mail and the transmission time information, and a transmission unit for reading the e-mail stored in the memory means based on the transmission time information and sending information in accordance with the read e-mail to the mail destination.